

Password Generator

You are asked to create a new password for your account and you cannot think of anything. Instead, you decide to use a random password generator. Create a program that will randomly generate a 5 character password for you. In order for the password to be accepted, it must consist of a capital letter and a number. Display the generated password to the user so that they will have a new password to use.